

Make a Submission

ABEN Ideas Hub was created to support sharing of creative ideas and perspectives on business ethics, using a variety of mediums. ABEN welcomes thoughtful and civil submissions from a broad spectrum of our community.

To foster an inclusive, safe, and welcoming environment to enable deep thought and meaningful conversation, we expect submissions to follow our terms and conditions.

ABEN reserves the right to remove any submissions it chooses.

ABEN Ideas Hub Terms and Conditions

These Terms of Service (“Terms”) apply to your access and use of the website provided by Australasian Business Ethics Network (“ABEN”, “our” or “we”). By using our website, you agree to these Terms.

Our Rights

ABEN may deny and/or remove any submissions you make. ABEN has the final decision as to whether content or behaviour violates the Terms. In deciding if there has been a violation of the Terms, we will consider the context and nature of submitted information, the likelihood and severity of actual or potential harms, relationship of the submitter with ABEN, historical submissions, and applicable laws. We may also consider your off-platform actions in assessing submissions.

Content Rights and Ownership

You retain your rights to any content you submit, post, or display on ABEN Ideas Hub.

By submitting your content, you grant ABEN a nonexclusive, royalty-free, worldwide, fully paid licence to use, reproduce, modify, adapt, publish, translate, create derivative works from, distribute, publicly display your content and any name or contact information submitted in connection, in all media formats and distribution methods used by ABEN.

ABEN requires this licence because you continue to own your content and ABEN therefore cannot display it without your permission. This type of licence is also needed to distribute your content. For example, you submit a presentation to ABEN, it is reproduced on our website. A modification might be that we show a snippet of your work on our LinkedIn page, with an attribution to you. A derivative work might be a publication of top content for the year that uses your content or a portion of your content, again with full attribution.

ABEN Ideas Hub is protected by copyright, trademark, and other Australian and foreign laws.
